"Since leaving the federal government in 2006, I have enjoyed working with small to medium business enterprises to improve efficiencies and increase profitability."

Lucia is a Certified Management Accountant whose strength in aligning strategic and operational planning with financial resources has helped clients to make informed decisions for improved performance. Lucia has over 30 years' experience working and consulting in the public and private sectors, as well as, not-for-profit organizations.

In particular, Lucia enjoys working with small to medium enterprises to improve their financial performance through budget development, sales enhancement, expense control and cash management. Managers must have relevant financial information to make decisions; therefore, systems must be set up to gather the data and provide timely reports and information.

Lucia provides financial coaching and training to managers and staff. She also enjoys working with owners and entrepreneurs to help them understand their organizations' financial statements and results.

Organizations that have found themselves in financial difficulties benefit from Lucia's experience in moving organizations to stronger financial positions. In some situations, Lucia oversees the management of programs and services until the financial situation improves and is sustainable.

Lucia served for many years as a volunteer with the Financial Management Institute of Canada, including terms as President of both the local and national boards. She has recently been accepted as a volunteer with the CPA's Community Connect Program which focuses on improving financial literacy among school aged children, adults and immigrants.
